

HETEROGENIUS

See the beauties and beasts coming to Claire Oliver

By Eudie Pak Tuesday, Jul 29 2008

Comments (1)

Kate Clark's lifelike sculptures of furry beasts with human faces (!) totally creep us out—in a good way, of course (can you imagine anyone going hunting if all the antelope, coyotes, and deer resembled little Billy or sweet Aunt Sally?). So we can hardly wait for this sneak peek of her upcoming show at Claire Oliver gallery's New, Next, Now exhibit, a preview of all the artists arriving at the Chelsea space this fall. You'll also see veteran painter Phyllis Bramson's mixed-media pieces that combine collage, chine-collé, and various painting and printmaking techniques to create colorful fairy-tale scenarios; photographer Matthew Sleeth's witty and unconventional look at the aftermath of a downpour titled Abandoned Umbrellas, 2004; Judith Schaechter's stunning stained-glass works; and Noah Fischer's light and sound installations that hold political undertones.

July 31-Sept. 6, 2008

Related Content

- I'll Be Your Mirror
October 17, 2006
- Spring Guide: Chakaia Booker Is A Radial Radical
March 18, 2009

More About

- Claire Oliver
- Wildlife
- Nature and the Environment

Share

Most Popular Stories

Inside the Brutal World of America's Kidnapping Capital

France's Sexiest Leading Man Speaks
A mesmerizing chat with the star of gangster epic Mesrine

As Polls Go Against the Mosque, Bloomberg Preaches Religious Liberty
The Mayor stands tall

Inside Rick Lazio's Biggest Wall Street Deal—The Chummy E-Mails
Diverting nearly a billion in retiree benefits into subprime risk? Oh, just watch him work the e-mail.

NYPD Tapes 5: The Corroboration
Another police officer secretly tapes his precinct—this time in the Bronx

More Most Popular >>

Weekly Ad
Great deals this week only at your New York Target.

GREAT VALUE

$45
RCA mini music system

Roll over for deals >

Prices valid September 5 - September 11

for free stuff, concert and dining info & more!

signup